The property of the Town remains as last year adding thereto the new Town Building erected the present year.

Estimate of the town expenses for the ensuing year, 1881-2, made by the Selectmen and Auditors :

Abatements,	-	-	-	-	-	$275.00
Births, Marriages, and Deaths,	-	-	-	-	-	75.00
Bridges,	-	-	-	-	-	150.00
Cemeteries,	-	-	-	-	-	50.00
Dogs,	-	-	-	-	-	15.00
Education,	-	-	-	-	-	2,900.00
Highways,	-	-	-	-	-	4,000.00
Interest,	-	-	-	-	-	2,800.00
Legal expenses,	-	-	-	-	-	100.00
Militia,	-	-	-	-	-	15.00
Miscellaneous,	-	-	-	-	-	200.00
Poor,	-	-	-	-	-	2,000.00
Sheep killed by dogs,	-	-	-	-	-	25.00

State taxes,	-	-	-	-	-	1,624.02
Town Officers,	-	-	-	-	-	1,350.00
Total estimated expenses,	-	-	-	-	-	$15,579.02

Inasmuch as the grand list of this town for 1880-1 was about $1,100,000, and if the grand list for the ensuing year does not vary materially therefrom, a tax of eighteen (18) mills will raise about nineteen thousand eight hundred dollars ($19,800). We therefore recommend that a tax of eighteen (18) mills on the dollar on list of 1881 (to be made out) be laid in order to meet the said expenditures and any other town purposes.

All which is respectfully submitted.

SCHOOL VISITORS' REPORT.

District No. 1, NAUBUC.

The schools in this district have been in session thirty-six weeks of the year ending August 31, 1881. The lower school has been taught the entire year by Miss Hellen E. Wadsworth, who has taught thirty-one, and is now engaged on her thirty-second term in the same school. What has been said of her as a teacher in years past is true now.

Miss Ida J. Alvord taught the fall and winter terms of the upper school. Miss Alvord has had experience in teaching and the school did well under her charge, and she appeared to have the good will of her pupils.

The summer term of the upper school was taught for ten weeks by Mr. George Lanphere. Owing to a combination of circumstances the school was not a success, but your committee did not attribute it to the teacher, who certainly worked hard, but to irregular attendance and a change of teacher. The term was a short one, consequently some time was taken up in getting acquainted. A teacher must learn his pupils, before he can successfully teach them. Until he does this, he must work in the dark.

The school buildings are in a fair condition.

N. W. FRENCH, Acting School Visitor.

District No. 2, CENTER

Mrs. Sarah A. Danforth taught the fall and winter terms of the upper school with marked success.

I was very much pleased with her lessons on map-drawing. The summer term of this upper school was taught by Miss Alice W. Chapman, as also the fall and winter terms of the primary department. Miss C. shows a thorough knowledge of the art of school-teaching and a good degree of steady improvement was made.

Miss Clara M. Walker, of Plantsville, taught the summer term of the primary school. As this was her first appearance as teacher her success was very creditable to her. Her ability to govern and control a school is indisputable.

The people of this district are fully alive to the educational wants of their children, and show a most commendable zeal in making the pathway to the school-room attractive and pleasant.

If committee-men, parents and citizens generally would visit the school oftener, a great and good result would ensue.

WM. H. GRISWOLD, A. S. V.

Districts Nos. 3 and 18.

Schools in these districts have been visited the past year as the law requires.

Miss Kate L. Hills, the former teacher in the 18th, has kept on through this year and retains her popularity in the district. Miss Carrie A. Kingsbury, a new teacher, took charge of the school in the third district. She began well and would have continued through the year, but ill-health compelled her to resign at the close of the second term. She was succeeded by Miss Georgia P. Aylsworth who carried the school very well through the last term.

I find nothing special to say of these schools for the past year over the preceding. I am not satisfied with this, for there is room for improvement in our schools, whatever is true in Quincy, Mass. No one can read of the "New Departure" in their public schools, in the report of our State Secretary, without having some painful thoughts excited relative to our own schools, and the most painful one is a despair of carrying out in our own town the reforms in Quincy. And why? Because we have not the teachers, and we cannot have them; not that the thing is impossible in the nature of the case, but utterly impracticable at our present rate of expenditure by the town for the support of the public schools.

To carry out these reforms we want teachers gifted by nature with good minds and a natural aptitude for teaching, this to begin with, and then a training in science and philosophy which will qualify them to comprehend and carry out the true methods of teaching. There is a true method—one philosophical way—and only one, of taking a young mind, laying the foundation and building the superstructure of a perfect education—an education which will fit its possessor to any position of his choice in the world of industry and business.

In my last report I made the following suggestion to teachers.

“It should be the constant aim of the teacher to explain how every branch of study stands related to the various industries and arts of life—to explain how education in all its parts, aids and is designed to aid in the successful prosecution of every profession, calling, and business of life. Practical problems, outside the texts books, should be given right along through every study, and the idea should be thoroughly inculcated in the mind of every scholar, that he is now being furnished with instruments, with which he is to work his way successfully in whatever employment he shall choose to engage in future life.”

Now to relieve our “despair” somewhat I am sure our teachers can go thus far, and if this suggestion should be taken up by the teachers in our town and reduced to practice, it might truly be called the earnest of a “New Departure.” And the teachers can do it, even if not cultured in science and philosophy.

If they will devote the time and mind they can take each branch of study which they are called upon to teach and work out the problem, How does this study stand related to the business of life? And further, such an exercise would react most favorably upon the teachers—it would wake up their minds to think, it would exercise a new interest in teaching, it would break up the drowsy monotony of repetition, and help powerfully to carry home the conviction to both teachers and scholars that there is a reason and an object for all this expenditure of time, money, and labor in connection with our common schools.

How many teachers will do it?

W. S. WRIGHT, Visitor.

District No. 4, OLD CHURCH.

The school in this district was taught for the third consecutive year by Miss Mary E. McLean.

With regard to the order, discipline, and general government of this school, no fault can justly be found. The scholars (so far as I could discover by my official visitations) were in their right places as to classification and the school hours as well filled in as at any school I visit. Miss McLean appeared to devote her whole time to the legitimate purposes of her business, and improvement fully commensurate to the opportunities seemed to be made. I am sorry to record a smaller attendance at the school than in former years; but it is not for the Visitor to canvass the district to ascertain the cause, as such a perambulation would not lead to any good result. The committee and teacher should take an active interest in keeping up a good attendance, and the parents or guardian of each child should inquire into any reason why their children or wards are not daily at school, and do what they may to apply the remedy.

I may as well state here as anywhere in my reports that the Visitors have ascertained that the practice of curtailing the hours of the Friday afternoon sessions is creeping slowly but surely into our schools. This must not creep any farther. Ten full sessions of three hours each per week is none too much for the health of the teacher or the best good of the scholars (extraordinaries excepted), and the Visitors will see that this rule is enforced.

JNO. W. HUBBARD, A. S. V.

District No. 5, EAGLE MILLS.

Mr. A. W. Forbes had charge of the fall and winter terms of the upper room. He taught both terms with fair success, and at the close of the winter term he had a school exhibition which passed off very pleasantly.

The summer term of the upper school was taught by Miss Mary J. Robinson. She kept good order, and marked improvement was made, showing that the scholars had a skillful teacher to instruct them. A good teacher, in my opinion; she had the good will of her scholars. The winter and fall term of the primary school was in the care of Miss Etta Robinson. As this was her first experience in teaching, she succeeded nicely in governing the young scholars; and the school showed for itself that the teacher had taken pains with the scholars. A well-kept school.

I wish that the scholars could be more regular in attendance in school. The parents can do much to help the teacher to improve the school, and it does seem to me, as a good many of our scholars stop going to school at the age of 12 or 14 years, that they should have the full benefit of going to school during the years preceding.

WM. H. GRISWOLD, A. S. V.

District No. 6, SOUTH CENTER.

Under the conditional vote of the Joint Board, fixing appropriations, two schools were maintained in this district during the past winter term. Miss Emily J. Kellogg taught the regular school during the entire year, and Miss Lucy E. Miller the second school the winter term. Both schools were well attended to, but there were not as many scholars in both as were registered respectively in the fall and spring terms of the one school.

What has been said in years past of the school or schools of this, the most populous district in town, is true now, no change for the better having occurred. Almost one-sixth of the school children of the town reside in this district, and yet the school-house would not seat one-half of them. What is needed first is a new school-house or such an alteration and enlargement of the present one as will afford seating capacity equal to the wants of the district, or a division of it, which latter could be easily made. And then if parents would take such an interest in the school as the wants of their children seem to demand, a great good would be accomplished. I have not heard of the trespasses of the school children on the property adjoining the school-house, such as has occurred in years past, and I sincerely hope this nuisance is abated. The teacher, among her other duties, must see that her scholars pass quietly and orderly out of the school grounds on their way to their respective homes.

JNO. W. HUBBARD, A. S. V.

District No. 7, TAYLORTOWN.

Miss Anna P. Tryon taught this school the entire year. An industrious and capable teacher, giving satisfaction to every one, parents and children, so far as I have learned. The school-house and grounds are in very good condition, the scholars orderly, and, like the teacher, industrious. The whole year's work may be summed up in brief—reasonable success.

JNO. W. HUBBARD, A. S. V.

School Districts No. 8, 9, 10, and 12.

These four schools have been under my supervision the past year, aggregating one hundred and fifty-one pupils, according to enrollment, and one thousand sixty-five dollars have been expended in sustaining them, averaging seven dollars per scholar, which is a very low sum.

Of these four schools, not one of them has continued the same teacher the entire year. In No. 8, Matson Hill, three different teachers have been employed. The fall term was taught by Miss Minnie Couch, it being her first effort in teaching. The winter term was taught by Miss Fannie Watrous, who has taught the same school four terms with good success. The spring term was taught by Miss Minnie B. Matson, who, I think, kept a good school, but she had only three scholars at any time, and at my last visit there was not a scholar in the school.

District No. 9, TWINE MILL.

The fall term in this district was taught by Miss Edna Curtiss, who taught the school the year previous with good success. The winter and spring terms were taught by Miss Emma Shipman, who is also engaged for the present year, which speaks well for the teacher. There seems to be several weak points in this school,—one of tardiness and another of scholars going home before school is closed, on excuses of carrying dinners and for other reasons which make it very bad for both the teacher and scholars. The last time I visited the school there were forty-five scholars in attendance, and when it was closed there were only eighteen.

District No. 10, NAYAUG.

The fall term in this district was taught by Miss Emma J. Shipman, and the winter and spring terms by Miss Nellie W. Hubbard, who is a new teacher, but she has shown that she can, if she will, become a successful one.

District No. 12, WAUSUC.

The fall term was taught by Miss Dickinson, the winter by Miss Gertie E. Babcock, and the spring by Miss Mary Carpenter of Coventry, who is engaged for the ensuing year. The attendance in this district is good, and the scholars, for the distance they have to go, are very punctual about getting to school in season.

Chap. 10, Sec. 2, Laws of the State of Connecticut, relating to education. Teachers and school committees, please take notice.

A. A. BABCOCK, A. S. V.

REPORT OF A. GARDNER, A. S. V.

I have had under my care five schools, in Districts No. 11, 13, 14, 15, and 16, with the usual routine, save with some modifications. Briefly considering them numerically, I would say that they have been a trifle weaker than the previous year, and the average smaller. It is sad to visit a school and find five scholars the maximum of attendance. Shall any of the schools in this section become extinct for want of scholars? I hope not.

No. 11, North Street, has had a successful year. Miss Lucy

E. Miller taught it the fall term, and Miss J. C. Covill the winter and spring terms. Both were successful, and accomplished all that could be reasonably expected.

No. 13, Middle District, has been taught through the year by Miss Mary D. Chamberlin. She is a good teacher, and the only regrets are that she had so few scholars, and so poor a school-room. Miss Chamberlin is a fine instructor in arithmetic. She sees the steps clearly in her own mind, and makes them so to the young learner.

No. 14, East Hill, has been taught by Miss Florence A. Hills, who has been anxious to accomplish a good work, giving all her energies and time, though she had but five scholars the spring term.

No. 15, Northeast, has had two terms and two teachers—the winter term, Miss Kate E. Watrous, and the spring term, Miss Lena R. Miner. It was something of a struggle with both teachers in point of government, yet it is gratifying to know that the district committee heartily and nobly co-operated with them in their efforts for the good of the school. This should always be the case, and in many instances would do much to the success and welfare of all concerned.

No. 16, Goslee Street, was taught during the autumn and winter by Mrs. E. J. Gardner, a teacher of large experience and culture, and if she failed of accomplishing all her desire, it was for want of appreciation on the part of the district. I think she was appreciated as a rule, and the impressions she made will not be soon or easily effaced. Miss Annie J. Porter taught the school the spring term, and sadly failed in government, and hence did not accomplish for the school the full object for which she was called. She tried to do well. Upon the whole, the picture has quite enough of back-ground. There is room for improvement. The work is one of great difficulties and embarrassments, and we can find ground for discouragement. There is still ground also for hope. Something has been done. These schools are constantly sending out boys and girls to higher schools and better seats of learning, and we must say when we look upon the apparent scanty residuum, "it pays."

One thing is very satisfying in connection with my charge. The school house in District No. 16 has been entirely remodeled. The old benches around the walls of the room, of fifty years ago, have given place for the most improved seats. A new floor has been laid, new black-boarding placed upon the walls, the windows blinded on the outside, and the entire building freshly painted. The enterprise of the district has been sufficient for this, and for which they deserve great credit. The same should be repeated in No. 13, Middle District. We have also introduced partially and with encouraging success, the sliding copy-books. These have given new zest in this department of primary education.

I heartily wish the districts would avail themselves of the school library orders, which law has been on the statutes of the State over twenty years. Only eleven towns in the State drew the full amount the last year, and one of those towns was Manchester, our sister town on the north. She has nine districts, and every one drew orders. Glastonbury has eighteen districts, and drew one order, No. 4, and that order the second. New Milford, in district No. 1, drew last year its twenty-second order. Thirty-three of the ninety-nine towns, and two hundred and twenty-one districts availing themselves of the library orders, drew their first installment. Some in this town have not done even this. When shall we awake out of sleep, and arise to our high privilege? When?

District No. 17.--1881.

This school was taught the three terms of thirty-six weeks by Miss Ida Veazey, with fair results.

If the parents of the scholars in this district would manifest more interest in the school it would be of great value to the teacher and school. The teacher's influence was good.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE BOARD.

I respectfully present my usual annual report of the material aspect of our Public Schools.

It shows a less number who attended no school than last year; a greater number who attended a higher grade of school; a reduction of $1.17 per month in the wages of female teachers, and an increase of $11.00 per month in the wages of male teachers; a less average attendance at school in the winter and spring terms; a less number of registered scholars during the year, but an increasing number who receive instruction at home.

In taking in the whole situation it appears to me that the public schools have a somewhat increased interest shown in them; that the public feeling is being attracted towards them; that those most interested in such institutions are taking a more active lead than formerly.

So far as I have seen, the school registers show an increased number of voluntary visitors to the schools. In one school in the southern section of the town, thirty visited it during the winter term, the enumeration of the district being only thirty-six. This is a goodly number, and the example should be followed by the good people of every district in town. The beneficial results of it cannot be too highly estimated.

Five-eighths (or nearly so) of all the school children in the town reside in five districts; the remaining three-eighths are scattered over the twenty-five square miles of thirteen districts, and this disparity is constantly increasing. Manufacturing districts are increasing in population, while agricultural districts are decreasing.

The town is not required to maintain a school in any district in which the average attendance during the preceding year was less than eight. District No. 8, "Matson Hills," and District No. 14, "Hill," came under the head of such districts. If any action is taken, it will be necessary for the town to take it.

While it seems cruel and contrary to the spirit of the age to deprive any child of a reasonable opportunity to receive a good education, it is as hard and cruel to compel the average tax-payer to pay at least twenty-five dollars per annum for the schooling of each child of the district, as he must when the attendance is below the number above mentioned. It will be a matter of generosity and public spirit if the town decide to maintain such schools. In my judgment, these districts should not be blotted out, for the time will come, sooner or later, when they will increase in population. Matson Hill is too picturesque and beautiful, and the soil is too good, to allow it to be forever depopulated. In fact a reaction is already taking place.

It may become necessary to re-arrange some of the school districts; in fact such action now would be directly in the interest of educational progress; but in taking such action, many obstacles might be met. It is for the town and districts to take it. I assume that the welfare and even the perpetuation of this Republic depends more on the rightly-directed intelligence of the whole people than upon any other cause, and that intelligence is more the result of rightly-directed education than of aught else, because all education naturally leads the possessors to see how little they know, and the sequence of that feeling is that the mind is then instinctively led to the contemplation of the Supreme Being, "the source of all intelligence, justice, truth, and mercy."

The American people scarcely realize the quality of the "feast" to which they are invited. No human mind can solve or even "guess at" the solution of the problem that, in the wonderful working of "His ways," we are destined to solve. We of Glastonbury possess a full average share of intelligence, and should realize a corresponding responsibility. Let us, then, each in his or her sphere do, and do quickly, what we may, to spread and broaden this intelligence, as we find it in process of cultivation in our primary schools. Let us visit them; let us beautify them; let us strew the pathway to the school with roses instead of thorns; let us make the fragrance of the school-room of sweet smelling flavor; let us greet the good teacher with a smile, and the unworthy one with dismissal; let us make the roll of voluntary
